BRAC 2005

Transforming Through Base
Realignment and Closure

Base Realignment and Closure

★ BRAC is essential:

- ✓ To transform military infrastructure to strengthen defense and homeland security,
- ✓ To establish more efficient installations with less excess property to more efficiently and effectively support our forces to train, deploy and fight jointly, and
- ✓ To convert under-utilized property for more productive reuse, supporting local, state and federal missions.

★ All DoD military installations were reviewed.

★ BRAC 2005 implementation will include more joint solutions; more Service with public cooperation; more proactive regulatory communications; and more interagency cooperation.

BRAC 2005 Mission

Effectively and efficiently implement the congressionally approved BRAC 2005 recommendations, while maintaining the well-being of Army Soldiers, civilians and their families, and considering impacts to the Army's primary missions and to local communities.

DoD BRAC 2005 Selection Criteria

★ Military Value is the primary consideration:

- ✓ The current and future mission capabilities and the impact on operational readiness of the total force of the Department of Defense, including the impacts on joint warfighting, training, and readiness.
- ✓ The availability and condition of land, facilities and associated) at both existing and potential receiving locations.
- ✓ The ability to accommodate contingency, mobilization, surge, and future total force requirements at both existing and potential receiving locations to support operations and training.
- ✓ The cost of operations and the manpower implications.

★ Other Considerations

- ✓ The extent and timing of potential costs and savings.
- ✓ The economic impact on existing communities in the vicinity of military installations.
- ✓ The ability of the infrastructure of both the existing and potential receiving communities to support forces, missions and personnel.
- ✓ The environmental impact, including the impact of costs related to potential environmental restoration, waste management, and environmental compliance activities.
